"Where local heritage, warm hospitality and authentic North Indian cuisine come together.

ABOUT US

Welcome to The Pendrell Arms, a family-owned country pub in the heart of Staffordshire, where local heritage, warm hospitality and authentic North Indian cuisine come together.

The Pendrell name has strong links to the area's history. In 1651, the Pendrell (or Penderel) family played a courageous role in helping the future King Charles II escape after the Battle of Worcester. They sheltered and guided him through the surrounding countryside, including the famous Royal Oak at nearby Boscobel. Their story remains an important part of Staffordshire's heritage today.

As a proudly family-owned pub, we are passionate about creating a relaxed and welcoming place for everyone. At the heart of our kitchen is our Head Chef, whose passion for authentic North Indian cooking is reflected in every dish.

With years of experience and a deep appreciation for traditional recipes, our chef combines time-honoured techniques with the finest ingredients to create food full of flavour, warmth and authenticity.

Every curry, tandoori dish and freshly prepared speciality is crafted with care, bringing the true taste of North India to The Pendrell Arms.

Our kitchen serves authentic North Indian food, inspired by traditional recipes and made with quality ingredients, freshly ground spices and plenty of care. From rich, aromatic curries to beautifully grilled dishes, our menu brings the flavours of the Punjab and beyond to the Staffordshire countryside.

We also offer classic pub favourites, so there is something for everyone to enjoy.

Whether you're stopping by for a drink, enjoying a meal with family and friends or celebrating a special occasion, we want you to feel at home.

We look forward to welcoming you to The Pendrell Arms.
